Election/Restriction

1. A preliminary amendment was filed May 25, 2006. The status of the claims are as follows: Claims 7-8 and 14 have been canceled. Claims 1-6, 9-13 and 15-16 have been amended. Claims 17-19 have been added. Claims 1-6, 9-13, 15-16 and 17-19 are recited in the restriction requirement below.

2. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in response to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I Claims 1-5, 9-12, 17 are drawn a nucleic acid molecule, live recombinant carrier, host cell and vaccine comprising the nucleic acid sequence encoding the 26 KD Lawsonia intracellularis protein.

Group II Claims 6 and 18-19 are drawn to a 26 kDa Lawsonia intracellularis protein or an immunogenic fragment of said protein.

Group III Claim 13 is drawn to a vaccine comprising antibodies against the 26 kDa Lawsonia intracellularis protein.

- Group IV Claim 15 is drawn to a diagnostic test method for the detection of antibodies against Lawsonia intracellularis comprising contacting a protein or fragment thereof with the specimen and detecting antibodies bound to the protein.
- Group V Claim 16 is drawn to a diagnostic test method for the detection of antigenic material against Lawsonia intracellularis comprising contacting antibodies with the specimen and detecting antigenic material bound to the protein.

3. The inventions listed as Groups I-V do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

The special technical feature linking the five inventions is the 26 kDa Lawsonia intracellularis protein.

Panaccio et al (WO 97/20050 published June 5, 1997) teach proteins 26 kDa proteins (see the Example 14, page 26). Panaccio et al also teach antibodies that were raised by pigs to these Lawsonia intracellularis proteins (Example 14, page 26).

The invention disclosed in this application lacks novelty, therefore the other claims are not so linked by a special technical feature within the meaning of PCT Rule 13.2 so as to form a single inventive concept. Inasmuch as, the technical feature does not define a contribution over the art, it is not "special" within the meaning of PCT Rule

13.2. Consequently, Groups I-V lack unity of invention.

4. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:

- (a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification;
- (b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter;
- (c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries);
- (d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;
- (e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

5. The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder.

All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
